

WILL TAFT VETO LAST TWO BILLS WHEN PRESENTED?

CLAIMED THAT HE WILL TURN DOWN THE WOOD SCHEDULE AND ALSO THE FREE LIST MEASURE.

CONGRESS TO ADJOURN

Should This Come Then There Would Be Nothing Else Left for the Present Session to Do But End Work.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The free list bill which passed the senate yesterday, was returned to the house today and will be sent to the conference. Chairman Underwood predicted the bill would be agreed to and sent to the President for his signature.

Denounced Tale. Denouncing an absolutely false charge of William Jennings Bryan that he blocked the efforts of Speaker Clark and others to revise the iron and steel tariff schedules, Democratic Leader Underwood, amid uproarious democratic applause, spoke in the house today, defending his position and that of the democratic House.

Will He Veto It? Washington, Aug. 2.—Republican "stand-patters" who talked with President Taft today, made the positive prediction that Taft would veto both the wool tariff revision bill and the free list bill, if they reached him. In this event the prospects are that the session will come to an abrupt end.

Another Mystery. Washington, Aug. 2.—Another mysterious document came to light today when the opinion of Assistant Attorney General Fowler, in March, 1908, declaring illegal the appointment and payment of the Hansen pure food board, was produced before the House committee on agricultural department expenditures. Attorney General Wickens later upheld the board's creation as entirely within the law.

AFTER A LOW RATE FOR THE STATE FAIR

Deal on With State Railroads Committee of Prominent State Business Men From Passengers Association.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 2.—A committee of Wisconsin businessmen and prominent farmers with members of the State Board of Agriculture, will go to Chicago, August 3rd, and endeavor to have a rate of a fare and a half allowed on all railroads in Wisconsin for the State Fair. A special rate has heretofore been refused by the Wisconsin State Board of Agriculture. Recently, however, influential citizens of Iowa went to Chicago and prevailed upon the Rock Island railroad to make a special rate of a fare and a half round trip from all points in Iowa to Des Moines. The Illinois Central and other railroads entering Des Moines immediately met the Rock Island rate and the connecting lines did likewise.

It is the hope of President Hill and William MacLennan, chairman of the transportation committee, to be able to induce the Western Passenger Association to permit the Milwaukee road, the Northwestern line and the Son line to follow the example set by the railroads of Iowa and grant a fare of 25 cents for the round trip. An effort will also be made to have the state rate begin on September 10 and end on September 15, giving patrons of the fair an opportunity to visit in Milwaukee after and before the fair.

VARDAMAN WINS IN MISSISSIPPI PRIMARY

Defeats His Opponents in Race for the United States Senatorship Election.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 2.—That former Governor Vardaman received sufficient votes at yesterday's democratic primary to insure his election to the United States senate, was conceded by all factions today.

INTENDS TO MARRY WHEN MAN RECOVERS

Miss Helen Jones, of Depere, Wis., Hastened To Bedside of Friend Who Was Mysteriously Shot In Garfield Park.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Miss Helen Jones, who hurried to Chicago from her home in Depere, Wis., when her fiancé Gerald Doyle an attorney, was mysteriously shot, while at Garfield Park, today announced her intention of going through with the marriage ceremony as soon as Doyle recovers. Doyle today stated he believed his assailants were the same persons who severely beat him in Menomonee, Mich., several months ago as a result of falling over a business deal.

CHICAGO PRIEST APPOINTED TO PARISH IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Aug. 2.—The Rev. Jas. A. McCarthy, for many years of Chicago, has been appointed to the Church of Jean to succeed Rev. Thomas Fitzgerald, who died on December 11, 1911, in Florissant, Mo.

REBELS IN PROMISE NOT TO SACK CITY IF SIMON RESIGNS

Haitian Diplomatic Corps Secure Assurance of Safety For Capital From Rebels If President Resigns.

Port Au Prince, Haiti, Aug. 2.—The diplomatic corps returned from a conference with the rebels today and brought with them assurances that the city would not be sacked but President Simon must resign in three days. Simon is preparing for flight.

Armistice Declared. Washington, Aug. 2.—A three days' armistice was agreed to in Haiti by President Simon and the leaders of the revolutionists now investing Port Au Prince. A temporary suspension of hostilities arranged by diplomatic corps at the request of President Simon who it is said now, will resign.

President Simon is preparing to leave the city. The revolutionists have shut off the water supply. The chief of police of Saint Le, with an escort, attempted to board a steamer when they were attacked by a mob. Five persons were killed and six wounded. The chief and his escort finally embarked.

POLICE HOLDING THE 14-YEAR-OLD THIEF

Howard Minnema, 14-year-old Boy, Who Worked In The Milwaukee Hotels, Held For Word From Authorities.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 2.—Howard Minnema, 14-year-old boy who victimized Milwaukee hotels, is held in the county jail today pending word from Lansing, Mich., authorities. He will likely be taken back to the Lansing reformatory where he was on parole. In the juvenile court the lad boasted of his crimes.

WHITE AGAIN TELLS HOW HE SPENT THE BRIBES RECEIVED

Appears Before the Lorimer Investigating Committee To Relate His Story.

Washington, Aug. 2.—State Representative Charles W. A. White, of Illinois, told the Lorimer committee today how he and Leo O'Neil Brown, also a state representative, took trips and flew high on their share of the alleged Lorimer "jackpot". How they went to Chicago, Muskegon and St. Joseph, Mich., and he spent $300 and Brown spent over $1,000 was related. White said Brown declared he ought to get more money because he took the greater risk. Brown expressed fear that detectives were shadowing him.

White said he later became broke and accepted loans from Brown.

MANY EXPECTED TO SECURE ANNUITIES

Insurance Commissioner Expects Large Volume of Business For State's Insurance For Citizens.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 2.—The insurance of annuities for old age benefits within a year is the hope of Insurance Commissioner Ekern, who says that inquiries about the state's plan of insurance for its citizens are indicative of a large volume of business. Doubt has been expressed that it would be possible to put the annuity plan into effect so soon, but Mr. Ekern says it will not be surprising if there are 2,000 applicants for annuities in a year, when increased education on the subject will have stimulated the demand.

BUILDING AND LOAN MEN IN CONVENTION

Delegates From All Over the Country Met Today in Grand Rapids, Mich., for Annual Session of Association.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 2.—Delegates from every section of the country, and representing a membership of two millions and total assets of about $800,000,000, were present at the opening here today of the nineteenth annual convention of the United States League of Local Building and Loan Associations. The opening session this morning following the welcoming addresses and responses, was devoted to committee appointments and the annual reports of the several officers. These reports showed that the local building and loan associations have, during the past year, shared the general prosperity of the country and have done the largest business in their history. At the subsequent sessions, which will continue over tomorrow, the league will discuss numerous questions relating to the protection and promotion of building association interests. Heading the list of speakers is Dr. Charles Prandau of Paris, head of the Bureau of Assurance and Social Providence of the French Government, who will be heard on the subject of "Co-operation as Applied to Home Purposes in Europe." Among the other scheduled speakers are E. N. Pennington of Hancock, Mich., Arthur H. Murdock of Omaha, John C. Interfield of Jersey City, C. A. Hayes of Charlotte, Clay W. Holmes of Bluff, Charles Werner of Chicago, and P. L. Burke of Philadelphia, is slated for election to the presidency of the league.

ENTOMBED MINER IS FOUND EARLY TODAY AFTER LONG SEARCH

Joseph Clary, In Mine. Since Sunday Morning, Taken Out Today Alive and Well.

John, Aug. 2.—Joseph Clary, imprisoned by a cave-in in a mine near here since last Sunday morning, was reached by rescuers this morning. He was alive and well. When the last spadeful of earth was removed by the workmen and they dropped through into the drift Clary threw himself into their arms and wept, while shouts of thousands cheering at the mouth of the mine were echoed down the shaft.

The emotion Clary showed at the sight of his rescuers and the death like pallor on his face brought tears to the eyes of hardened workmen miners.

Shouts from the crowd, sounds from the outer world, rushes of fresh air, gave heart and strength to the weakened man, who first had little to say save breathe his thanks.

After the physician was lowered and had administered stimulants, Clary was hoisted to the surface and hurried to his home, where his mother, weakened by strain and long vigil, lay ill.

The terrible suspense he suffered was indicated in part by the story he told over the telephone which was lowered into the drift hole early this morning.

He said: "I grow ravenously hungry but tried to forget. I drank a lot of soup water, which rose slowly and threateningly about me. I realized that unless relief came soon I must die from drowning, starvation or suffocation, but I never lost courage."

HALL & HUEBEL
TO HOLD CARNIVAL
AT ASTORIA, ORE.
Centennial of Arrival of Expedition to Pacific Coast Sent By John Jacob
Astor Will Be Celebrated
Next Week.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Astoria, Ore., August 2.—One week
hence there will be inaugurated here
the Astoria Centennial Carnival, for which preparations on an elaborate scale have been going forward for more than a year and are now practically completed. The carnival fea-sibilities will extend over an entire month and will embrace a wide variety of attractions. The management is in receipt of advices indicating the attendance of visitors from all of the Pacific States and from Canada and the East as well.
The celebration is to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the arrival on the Pacific Coast of the expedition sent from New York by John Jacob Astor. The expedition resulted in the settlement of Astoria, which gave the United States its strongest claim to the Oregon country, and also marked a chapter of American heroism and suffering that has first place
in the listing of annals of exploration.
The little group of huts erected by the fur traders and explorers was named Astoria in honor of the promoter of the expedition and formed
the first permanent settlement in this part of the country. Though the British took possession of Astoria Fort
in the war of 1812 and remained the place
Fort George, the place was restored
to America after the treaty of peace
with American claims of settlement
unimpaired.

COMPENSATION ACT AND ITS WORKINGS

C. H. CROWNHART AND PROF.
JOHN R. COMMONS OF INDUS-TRIAL COMMISSION SPOKE
AT CITY HALL LAST NIGHT.

PROVISIONS EXPLAINED

How Law Will Become Effective,
Basis of Payment and Advantages Were Pointed Out—
Work of Industrial Commission.

Important points in the new Workmen's Compensation law were pointed out and explained by members of the state industrial commission at a meeting in the assembly room of a music club last evening. There was a large sized audience consisting mainly
of the employers of the local factories
and shops, present to hear the explanation of this much discussed
measure.

Conditions Studied.
C. H. Crowhart, chairman of the commission, outlined his entire remarks to the new Wisconsin compensation law. At the outset he stated that the law was not a new thing in this country, but had been for behind
other countries in this regard, as the European countries except Turkey
had laws covering this matter.

The present enactment, Mr. Crow-hart said, was the result of two years
of study and investigation by a legislative committee which reported in 1911 and submitted a bill to the legislature, which was passed about as drawn up with little amendment. It was a law prepared after a long period
of study on matters and conditions to be affected.

Effect is Voluntary.
In explaining the exact manner in which the law would affect the employers of the state, Mr. Crowhart stated that the matter of coming under the measure or remaining free
from it, was voluntary, with the exception of state agencies which came under the law without exception. The first step for the employer who wishes to take advantage of the measure, is to file a simple declaration with the state commission that he wishes to run his business in accordance with the terms of the new act.

An employee who does not care to be governed by the act may file an objection declaring that he does not care to be regulated by the law, and it will not apply to him. In case he does not file an objection, he will be governed by the act providing his employer has filed his election.

According to the terms of the act compensation is paid to all injured employees. Injury and accident is the basis for payment and not negligence on the part of the employer.
However, there is a limit on the amount which may be paid. The amount paid is based on the loss of wage. Any accident which does not affect the wage earning capacity of a laborer will not allow compensation.
This is different from the old law
which took into consideration physical and mental suffering.

Mr. Crowhart also pointed out that there was a limit on the wage,
the maximum being placed at $750 annually and the minimum at $375 annually. And in no case can the full wage be allowed as compensation, but only 65 per cent of the annual wage.

Differences Few.
In addition to the compensation the employer furnishes first aid and medical treatment for ninety days. In the majority of cases, to be settled,
according to Mr. Crowhart, the manufacturer and the laborer will agree without any differences and without the attendant interruptions which come with lawsuits and litigation proceedings.

In case there are differences, however, an examiner is appointed by the commissioner and he looks into the case and makes a settlement. There may be a few instances in which an appeal will be taken to the state commission which will take evidence and
in an official way will give a decision
at once without involving long drawn legal suits.

Advantages of Act.
Some of the advantages of the new system were noted and explained by Chairman Crowhart. One of these was that the law has a limited liability. The employer will know just what will have to be paid and there will not be the uncertainty of a large
judgment as under the old measure.
Another advantage was given that there was an extension of loss over months and perhaps years instead of the payment of a lump sum. The method of paying the entire sum to be allowed over to a trust company
and receiving a discount was also explained.

The certainty of the compensation
was also more definite for the reason that where there were persons dependent on the one injured, the amount paid to the dependent persons
at the time of the injury was alone
taken into consideration, regardless of future possibilities.

Litigation Avoided.
Avoiding litigation and the cost of lawsuits was more probable under the new law as the commission was the board of last resort. This all means a saving of time and money to the employer. It also makes it possible to do away with the expensive accident insurance which most employers
carry, and makes way for mutual policies.

Some of the objections which were raised to the law by the employers
were stated by the speaker and he pointed out some of the inconsistencies in these objections. Among those discussed were: higher insurance rates; removal of the defense of contributory negligence; perpetuation
of a fraud on the part of the worker;
and it also takes away the defense of
the fellow servant law.

and they are protected from the dangers of receiving a large lump sum.
Commons in Address.
Prof. John R. Commons spoke on the industrial commission. He stated that it occupied the same position between employers and employees, as the state railroad commission occupied between the investors and the consumer. It was the place of the latter to make a reasonable ratio between the two and regulate and adjust conditions. The industrial commission stands in the same relation between employers and their laborers.

Under the old system with the factory inspectors throughout the state
there was not the uniformity of regulation which is obtainable under the present plan which gives opportunity for a set system of campaign for factory improvements and regulation.

Has Extensive Power.
By the new system said Prof. Commons, three men are given the power
to regulate and see that the manufacturing plants are safe. Law-makers ignorant of the conditions are relieved of the necessity of passing specific laws. The industrial commission has under its supervision all
the labor conditions of the state, including the compensation act, child labor law,
and women's hours of employment act,
as well as the inspection of factories
and other matters in their sphere of power.

Following Prof. Commons' talk, J.
D. Beck offered a few remarks on the problem of insurance, and gave figures
of a large Chicago corporation showing that the new system of compensation involved less expense than the system of accident insurance, where
by great sums were paid as premiums
annually to Chicago corporations.

FINED FOR HUNTING OUT OF THE SEASON

Penalty of $20 and Costs Fixed Against William Taggart of Evansville Who Shot One Wild Duck.

For violation of the state game law
with regard to shooting wild ducks,
William Taggart, who lives near Janesville, was arraigned in municipal court this morning charged with shooting a waterfowl of that species out of season, on July 31 in the town of Union. Taggart pleaded guilty and the minimum fine of $20 and costs of $5.70, was fixed by the court. Taggart was unable to pay but promised to send the money later and the case was adjourned until next Monday.

Taggart was arrested by Deputy Game Warden Pat McMahon of Milwaukee on a complaint made by his former, who asked a share of one-third of the fish assessed as provided by law.

OFFICIALS AT FUNERALS
OF CRANE AND O'BRIEN

Many officials from Chicago and other points were in the city last night and today, paying their last respects to the late Henry Crane, who was superintendent of bridge construction for several years and to Conductor John O'Brien.

The remains of Mr. Crane were taken by special train to Milwaukee,
where they will be cremated. A large number of the relatives and friends,
among whom were many railroad employees, accompanied the remains and will return on the special, which will arrive here about 10 o'clock tonight.

The remains of Mr. O'Brien were taken to St. Olaf for burial and were attended by one of the largest funerals that have ever been seen in this city.

Conductor Harlan and Pilot Wurt
had charge of the special funeral to Milwaukee train and Engineer Hendricks and Fireman Marquette were
on duty on the head end.

Two train crews, Conductor Perry and McCarthy and four brakemen from the Harrington run were off duty today
to attend the funeral of Conductor O'Brien.

Among those from Chicago, who came to the city to attend the funeral
were Conductor Peter O'Grady, Edward Welsh, John O'Grady, Carl Mahy
and William Dulin, Jr.

Master Mechanic F. W. Peterson
called at the local shops today.

Ben Sullivan, machinist Lohrer at the shops, has been attracted by the glare of the footlights and in the future
patrons of the Royal play house will be entertained by his vocal music.
Dulin is the fortunate possessor of a good voice and the "boys" all predict
for him a good future on the stage,
if he would be content to devote all
his time to that work.

Machinist James Garrison has resigned his position at the shops.

Harold Dulin has returned, after spending two weeks at St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Brakeman Welsh has displaced
Dulin on 582 and 583.

Conductor M. P. Carroll is on duty
on the north end way freight.

Edward Sullivan, call boy at the shops, is laying off for a few days, on account of sickness and his place is being filled by his brother, William.

Brakeman Garrett Poudre is slated
for service at the new gravel pit.

One of the longest trains that ever went out from the local yards was freight train No. 588, which contained 80 cars as it left here today on the Madison division, with engine 1472 in the lead.

John Ames is laying off today.

FORMER RESIDENT HOLD-UP VICTIM DOWN IN CHICAGO

Dave Young, For Many Years Connected With Grand Hotel Here,
Robbed by Windy City
Footpads.

Down in Sterling they are telling a good story on Dave Young, proprietor
of the Grand Hotel and formerly manager of the Grand Hotel of this city. It seems Dave went to Chicago to witness the military tournament and was held up and robbed. No one likes a joke better than Dave, if the joke is not on himself, and his friends at Sterling are not losing the opportunity to turn the tables on him. The story of the robbery is recounted in a Chicago paper as follows:

It cost D. R. Young, a hotel man of Sterling, Ill., $542 to see the guard
mount at the soldiers' camp in Grant park early today.

Mr. Young, who was stopping at the Saratoga hotel, left word with the clerk at night that he wished to be awakened at 4 a. m.

"I don't fail me, young man, because
this will be my first opportunity to see the guard mount on the lake front, and I would not miss it for a fortune, as I leave town at night," said the guest.

Mr. Young was aroused as requested. A few seconds later he stood in front of the hotel and was looking at the sky. Three young men came along.

"Good morning, sir," said one of the trio to Mr. Young.

"The Sterling man began conversing with the engaging strangers, and revealed that he wanted to see the soldiers."

"We'll be pleased to escort you to the lake front," said one of the three.

As the party was turning into Madison street off Dearborn the three seized Young and throttled him. Then they tore off his diamond stud valued at $50, seized his gold watch, worth $150, and found $12 in cash.

A few seconds after the hold-up Detective Kelly and Trant saw three men running east in Madison street and gave chase. Young joined in the chase. The robbers turned north into Michigan avenue and the detectives
fired at them. Policeman O'Connell, stationed at the Irish street bridge,
heard the shots and headed off a man
running toward the bridge. The prisoner said he was Abraham Friedman.
Young's watch was found in his possession.

After the arrest Mr. Young saw the guard mount.

council met last night in regular session and among the business transacted was the granting of a liquor license to John Schmeling in the Pollard building opposite the postoffice.
This now makes ten saloons in Edgerton. Mr. Schmeling, it is understood, will handle the Crank Brewing company's product of Janesville, they holding the lease of the building.

The council also granted druggists permits to both drug stores of the city. There were no permits granted
last year.

The contract for laying about 1,700
feet of water main in the second ward
was let to S. F. Madden at 65 cents

LAST SAD RITES FOR HENRY CRANE HELD AT NINE O'CLOCK

Funeral Services Conducted at Home
on Oakland Ave. by Rev. Jenkin
Lloyd Jones—Many Friends
Present.

This morning at 9:15 o'clock, from the home on Oakland avenue, the last services for the late Henry Crane
were performed by Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones of Chicago, his former pastor in the Unitarian church. After the service the remains were taken to Milwaukee for cremation purposes by a special train, accompanied by many friends of the deceased.

A great many friends of Mr. Crane were in Janesville to pay their last respects to their old comrade, and a number of former comrades in his work for the Northwestern railroad
were in the city to attend the funeral.

Among those present at the services
relatives of the deceased: Mr. Leon Nish of Elgin, Ill.; Mr. William Ross
of Kirkland, Ill.; Mr. A. L. Weaver of Carey, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. H. H. H. of Baraboo. There were also in attendance the following railroad officials:
W. D. Cantillon, General Manager, C.
& N. W. railroad of Chicago; J. P.
Cantillon, Superintendent, C. & N. W.
R. R. of Eagle, Iowa; F. R. Beechin of St. Paul, Minn.; C. A. Lichty, of Chicago, General Inspector; T. A. Duffey of Hyron, S. D., Superintendent of Bridges and Building; M. H. H. of Baraboo, Superintendent of Bridges,
and Building; William Noon, of Marquette, Mich., Superintendent of Shore and Atlantic R. R.; G. W. Dally,
Chicago, Superintendent, C. & N. W.
and William Sweney, Fond du Lac, Superintendent of Bridges and Building.

The pallbearers were E. R. Beechin,
William Noon, M. H. H. H., Edward
Smith, E. D. McGowan, and C. S.
Jackson.

Handsome floral designs almost completely covered the casket and
the service conducted by the old friend
and lifelong adviser of the deceased, Reverend Jenkin Lloyd Jones, were most impressive.

Funeral Services
FOR JOHN O'BRIEN
Were Held This Morning At 9:00
O'clock From St. Patrick's Church,
Many Friends of Young Man
In Attendance.

This morning at 9:00 o'clock the funeral of John O'Brien, who was drowned on Sunday, was held from St. Patrick's church. The services for the deceased were performed by Rev.
E. H. Kelly. After the service the remains were taken to Mt. Olivet cemetery and interred there. The funeral was one of the largest ever held in Janesville, and there were many beautiful flowers sent by friends of the unfortunate young man. Mr.
O'Brien was a very popular man, and made friends wherever he went along the line, and many of his railroad
friends attended the services from out of town. The funeral was also attended by the Ladies and the Knights of Columbus in a body. The pallbearers were: William Sage, John McCarthy, James Wilson, Robert Boudle, Frank
McCarthy, and Edward Joyce.

Mrs. T. W. Goldin.
The body of Mrs. T. W. Goldin was brought to Janesville last night at 12:35. They were taken directly to the home of J. B. Humphrey on Court street and the funeral was held there

this afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Rev.
Hazen officiated. Many old friends of the deceased were in attendance and there were many beautiful flowers.
After the service the body was taken to Oak Hill cemetery and interred
there. The pallbearers, who were all relatives of Mrs. Goldin, were: Stanley Dunwiddie, Alan Dunwiddie, Ray Humphrey, Ernest Sharp, Walter Dunwiddie and Ralph Dunwiddie. ...

VETERANS CELEBRATE 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF ENLISTMENT

Survivors of the 13th Wis., a Jamesville Regiment, Hear Call for Campfire on August 10 and 17.

On the sixteenth and seventeenth of this month the local veterans will hold their annual campfire to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the mustering in of the Thirteenth regiment, Wisconsin volunteers, which was composed almost entirely of men from Jamesville and vicinity.

Although the ranks have been thinned by encounters on the field of battle during the Civil war and by disease during and since that time, the men of '61 still are able to feel the thrill of the war notes that were so familiar to them at one time.

The following is the call sent out by Captain Phil Norcross, president of the association, and W. P. Clark, the secretary, it promises to be a most interesting gathering and well attended. The call is as follows:

Fifty years ago recruiting for the 13th Wisconsin Infantry began in Jamesville. The half-century has brought many changes; many, indeed a large majority of our comrades have passed the last roll-call. It seems fitting that in this semi-centennial year of our history we should devote more of the little time left to our annual reunion, and should make a special effort to attend it.

In view of these things, it has been decided to hold the reunion on Wed., August 2nd and Thursday, August 3rd, 1911, at Jamesville. Wednesday will be devoted to the greeting of comrades with a campfire in the evening for which good speakers and music will be provided. On Thursday morning a business meeting of the association will be held with important speeches from the comrades. Dinner will be served on both days as usual by the W. R. C. The rest of the time you will "forage" for yourselves. East Side I. O. O. F. hall, 22 North Main street, will be headquarters.

MERCHANTS ARE BUSY ON LIGHTING PLANS

Will Seek To Have the Council Re-consider Their Action of Two Weeks Ago.

Members of the lighting committee of the Industrial and Commercial Club, of which Amos Rehnberg is president, are most diligent in their work of bringing about a reconsideration of the council's action as to the erection and maintenance of Art lights on Main and Milwaukee streets. Several of the adherents, who dropped the measure when it came up for consideration, have promised support, when it is brought to a vote again and it is probable that it will be one of the issues at the next council meeting.

JEANETTE PHILLIPS WEDDED IN CHICAGO

Jamesville Young Lady Married to Lawrence L. Hoffman in Chicago on July 15.

Word has been received in this city of the marriage of Miss Jeanette Phillips of this city, to Lawrence L. Hoffman of Chicago. The wedding, it is reported, took place in Chicago on July 15. Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman, who have been spending their honeymoon in Boone, Iowa, have returned to Chicago where they will reside.

The bride is well known and very popular in Jamesville, where she has made her home for a number of years past. For a time previous to her marriage she was employed in the office at the Myers hotel. The groom is a foreman of the roundhouse at North street, Chicago, and a fishing and railroad man. He was formerly night watchman at the South Jamesville roundhouse, but left here to take the more responsible position in Chicago.

MORE EQUIPMENT IS BOUGHT FOR SCHOOL

New Desks and Office Chairs and Equipment Were Purchased Today—New Quarters Nearly Completed.

Principal J. P. Lowth of the Rock County training school and Superintendent O. D. Antkowiak met this afternoon with a representative of the American Seating Company and made arrangements for the purchase of desks and other equipment for the new training school. There were about eight seats to be ordered and desks for the instructors and other equipment for furnishing the school. A piano has been ordered some time ago and is expected to arrive in the near future.

Work on the remodeling of the rooms in the Jefferson school for the training school quarters is progressing rapidly and the plumbing is the most important work which still remains to be done. Most of the painting has been finished and the blackboards are ready for use. The floors are still to be laid, and the furniture installed when it arrives but most of the work is now completed and the students will meet in the new quarters for the fall term.

INDIAN RELEASED FROM JAIL TODAY

Howard Powell, Full-blooded Oneida, Taken in Custody Yesterday, Released After Sobering Up.

Howard Powell, the full-blooded Oneida Indian, who was picked up drunk by the police yesterday and put in the city lock-up, was released from his prison this morning, promising Chief of Police Appleby not to touch the "fire water" while in Jamesville.

An Englishman, who when arrested, last night refused to give his name, was also turned out of the lock-up this morning. The man had been taken into custody on complaint of people living on Eastern Ave., who claimed the man was mentally unbalanced. He claimed he had come here to seek employment in the country and had engaged in an altercation with some children in Spring Brook over profane language, which one youngster is said to have spoken. The man seemed to be more of a religious fanatic than a madman and was given his freedom, promising to go direct to the country.

NEW CIGAR FACTORY FOR JAMESVILLE

J. J. Watkins Opens Factory in Corn Exchange Building.

Smokers of this city will be pleased to learn of the new enterprise, which means better smoking for them. J. J. Watkins, a cigar maker with a reputation for making a fine cigar, has opened a new factory in the Corn Exchange building. For the present he has two brands of cigars which will be manufactured. The Commercial Club, a full Havana cigar which will sell for 10c, and the Prize Seal, a Havana and domestic cigar, which will sell for 5c. Quality will be the foundation upon which the new endeavor hopes to base its success. All the cigars will be turned out by hand and only the best quality of tobacco leaf used in the making of the different brands. Mr. Watkins assures the smokers that nowhere can they buy more actual cigar satisfaction for their money than in either The Commercial Club or The Prize Seal cigars.

New Highway to Cross Missouri, Jefferson City, Mo., August 2.

Governor Hadley and the State Board of Agriculture gave a public hearing today on the matter of the proposed State road to connect St. Louis and Kansas City. Three routes are under consideration and nearly 1000 delegates representing numerous cities and towns were on hand to urge the claims of one or another of the proposed routes.

Presbyterian Picnic: The ladies of the Presbyterian church enjoyed a picnic up the river today, leaving the city at half past nine o'clock this morning. A basket dinner was served at noon and the party returned late this afternoon.

PENSION INNOCENT EX-CONVICT

Man Who Served Twenty Years in Prison Is Provided For.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 2.—Andrew Toth, a poor laborer, who served over twenty years in prison for a crime of which he was innocent, has been placed on Andrew Carnegie's pension list by an order of the steel master. Toth and his family will receive $10 a month. Toth was sentenced to hang in March, 1889, for murder. Sentence was commuted to life imprisonment for Toth and his two alleged accomplices. One of the others died after three years and the other after five years. Both were innocent, as was proved last summer, when a death-bed confession in Hungary revealed the identity of the real slayer. Toth was a Carnegie workman.

Friend of Family Declares Girl Will Be Found in Europe.

New York, Aug. 3.—The World publishes a dispatch from Hildesford, Pohl, Maine, quoting a Miss Griffiths, companion and nurse of Mrs. Rufus W. Peckham, widow of Justice Peckham and aunt and godmother of the missing Dorothy Arnold, as saying that the missing girl is known to be alive in Europe; that she will reappear by October 1 and that the purpose of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold in going abroad was to seek their daughter, who has not communicated directly with her family since she disappeared.

UPTON SINCLAIR GOES TO JAIL

Author and Associates Refuse to Pay Fines for Violating Blue Laws.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 2.—Upton Sinclair and ten associates were sentenced to eighteen hours in the Chester county workhouse for indulging in tennis, baseball, and other sports on Sunday in the single tax colony of Arden.

They might have escaped by each paying a fine of $1 and costs, but Sinclair declared they didn't recognize any such law and they would go to the rock pile.

POPE IS ASSURED OF RECOVERY.

Pontiff's Condition, Although Not Normal, Gradually Improves Daily.

Rome, Aug. 2.—The condition of Pope Pius, although not quite normal, is not alarming. He is getting stronger every day. The doctors assure him he is now on the way to complete recovery and have advised him to continue the rest they have ordered only with the desire to insure the success of their treatment. They believe he will be able in a short time to resume the ordinary routine of his life.

EX-GOV. VARDAMAN IS IN LEAD.

Returns Show He Exceeds That of Rivals for Senate.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 2.—Former Gov. James K. Vardaman probably will be the next United States senator from Mississippi. Meager returns from the Democratic primary election show he is leading Senator Leroy Percy and C. H. Alexander at a ratio of about 40 per cent. In the more remote rural districts it is reasonably predicted that this ratio will be sufficiently increased to give Vardaman a small majority over both his opponents.

Nominations were also made for all state offices. Earl Brewer headed the ticket for governor and had no opposition.

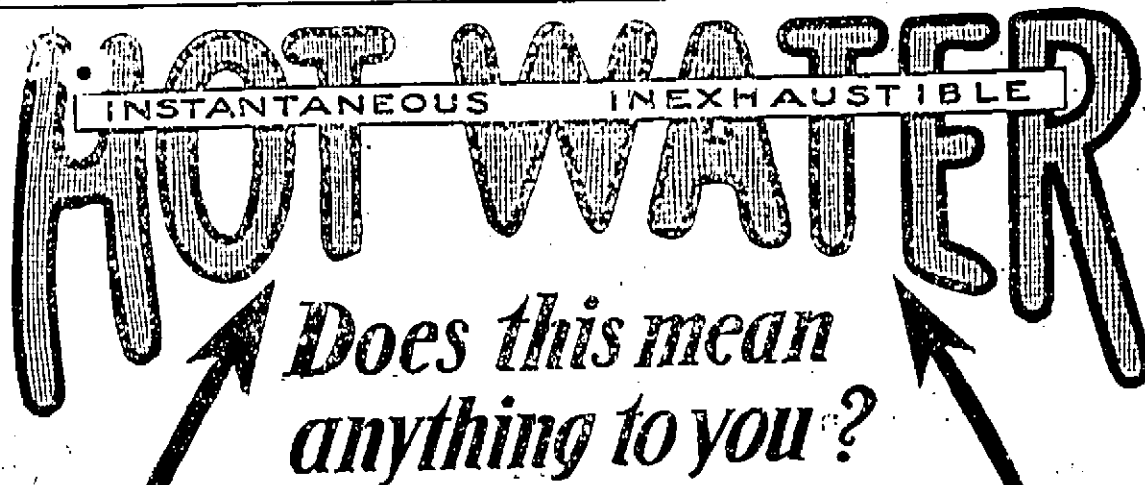

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

By A. W. MACY.

A LUCKY STUMBLE.

Once upon a time, at a dancing party at Windsor, a young Welsh soldier stumbled and fell, landing in the lap of a lady who was sitting by and looking on. Strange to say, this mishap was the beginning of a love affair between the two, which culminated in their marriage. The lady was Catherine, widow of Henry V. of England. The young soldier's name was Owen Tudor. Three children were born to them, the eldest of whom, Edmund Tudor, married Margaret Beaufort, daughter of the Duke of Somerset. A son of Edmund and Margaret became Henry VII., and beginning with him, and including Henry VIII., Edward VI., Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth, the line of Tudors ruled England for one hundred and eighteen years. It was a lucky stumble for the young Welsh soldier, but in view of some things the Tudors did to them, it is doubtful whether it was lucky for the people of England.

Can you get a new viewpoint on the hot water question? We know it has become a commonplace necessity through long association. But we want you to consider it in a new meaning—hot water service. Contrast the dwarfed, uncertain service furnished by the little water-heater and the splendid convenience of the

RUUD

Automatic Gas Water-Heater

The Ruud is the only heater that furnishes Uniform hot water at a fixed temperature determined by yourself—

Convenient hot water any minute of day or night—the Ruud responds at the turn of any hot water faucet in the house—

Instantaneous hot water, no delay. Open a faucet and the Ruud lights the gas in its own burner and heats the water as it flows—

New Gas

Inexhaustible hot water, steaming hot water in unlimited quantities—a quart or a thousand gallons—

Economical hot water—no gas is burned except to heat the water you are then using—

No water-heater you now have can begin to approach the luxury of the Ruud. Isn't it about time to discard the inefficient heater and install a Ruud? Come in and see it at work.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Candid Girl
by Barbara Boyd

Tell Some Things She Would Like to Say to Some Mothers.

IF I were the daughter of some mothers," said the Candid Girl, "seems to me I would have a heart-to-heart talk with my mother upon some points of our relationship."

The Woman Listener pricked up her ears. "For instance?" she inquired.

"I would ask her," said the Candid Girl, placidly, "to let me develop a little individuality and initiative. Some girls might just as well be jelly-fish,—not that I know much about jelly-fish except that they are sort of flabby and have no backbone. But it is to this condition, some mothers would reduce their daughter to. Such mothers choose all their daughter's dresses and hats, select what they shall read, decide where they shall spend the summer. The poor girls never have a chance to make up their minds about anything. If I had such a mother, I think I should tell her that now and then I would like the privilege of making a mistake; that if I did choose a green gown when green made me look as if I were senile, it would be better for my soul's welfare, than live in the apathetic state of never choosing anything. It would really give me a reason for respecting her judgment the more."

"But it seems a pity that a girl should suffer for mistakes that could be avoided," said the Woman Listener.

"Don't the philosophers or somebody tell us that suffering is good for us?" returned the Candid Girl. "But really it isn't just to a girl never to train her to be critical and discriminating, to choose and to decide. She never will develop any individuality. She never will be anything but a jelly-fish, and the world really doesn't care much for jelly-fish, now does it?"

"No," admitted the Woman Listener.

"Then, if I were the daughter of some mothers, I would, when I came to years of discretion, if that time ever arrives," said the Candid Girl, "ask her, 'ask my mother to let me be what I wanted to be. If she wished me to be a society girl, and I desired to be a missionary, I would tell her plainly but kindly—as the editor of the query column says—that I thought I had a right to live my own life, and it wasn't just to try to fit me into a niche of her own making.'"

"And I would tell her, too," she went on gently, "that there ought to be more freedom between us, that if our tastes weren't alike, she ought to go her way and I mine, without any hard feelings; that she ought not to want to drag me over the country, when traveling makes me sick, just because she likes to travel; or else stay home with the air of a martyr, because I won't go. Or that if I want to go to a religious convention in the summer, and she wants to go to Newport, there should not be a quarrel to the finish between us, just because we are mother and daughter, as to who shall win out."

The Woman Listener nodded her head sympathetically. "My mother always did that. And I usually gave in, because I didn't want to be undutiful."

"It isn't being undutiful," said the Candid Girl, sagely. "It is just encouraging such mothers to be selfish. They have no right to completely own a girl because she happens to be their daughter. Many a mother of this kind has made her daughter's whole life unhappy by insisting she live in a way contrary to all the girl's desires."

"There are lots of heart-to-heart talks I would have, if I were the daughter of some mothers," went on the Candid Girl. "I would certainly ask her, if I were going to be married, to teach me housekeeping. I would not want her to let me walk up to the altar thinking married life was all roses and moonshine, to find out for myself afterward that there were lots of thorns and starless nights. I would want to know and be prepared for the life ahead of me, so that I would not fall down on my knees in it."

"Luckily," said the Candid Girl, and her eyes glowed, "most mothers are so dear and sweet they don't need plain talks of this kind. Most of them are entirely too good to their daughters."

"Yes," said the Woman Listener, rising, "that's true." Then, smiling quietly, "and likewise, some mothers can take hints from other mother's daughters."

SUMMER DRINKS.

There is no drink that quite takes the place of lemonade for most palates, and with the addition of a sprig of mint and a few bruised leaves a simple lemonade is made.

Crushed currants and mint, with a little lemon juice, makes a delicious drink.

Pine Apple Cup.—Put into a bowl the juice of three lemons, two oranges, sliced and the seeds removed, one grated pine apple, and one cup of sugar. Let stand an hour to extract the juice, then strain carefully. Add as much cold water as desired, two slices of shredded pine apple, and fill the glasses half full of cracked ice before adding the fruit juice.

Iced Tea.—Make tea, using a teaspoonful for each cup of boiling water, let stand to brew or steep, but not boil, for five minutes. Then pour over cracked ice in a pitcher. Serve with loaf sugar and slices of lemon.

Raspberry Cup.—Mash and strain two cupsful of currants stripped of stems. Mash also an equal quantity of raspberries. Mix the juice, sweeten to taste, and serve in glasses half full of cracked ice and decorate with a sprig of mint.

Mint Sangaree.—Crush two or three sprays of mint with a lump of sugar. Put into a glass half full of cracked ice. Add four tablespoonfuls of grape juice and fill the glass to the brim with charged water. Shake thoroughly and strain into another glass.

Raspberry Dash.—Fill a tumbler half full of cracked ice, add a tablespoonful of sweetened raspberry juice and a tablespoonful of sweet cream. Fill the glass with soda water.

Woolen Underwear Best.

Nearly all medical men in the West Indies advise the wearing of thin woolen and not cotton underwear. Many persons wear "cholera belts," made of flannel.

Men Bitten by Baby Turtles.

Cabbage in Flats.

Lettuce is said to cause measles and scarlet rash. It is known beyond cavil that boiled cabbages have caused rashes in flats.

Common Cause of Colds.

The fact that colds are more common in winter than in summer is not due simply to the lower temperature. It is mainly because people spend less of their time in the open air. Breathing the chilly air they remain indoors, the health is proportionately lowered and they take cold easily.

Love's Influence.

Love may not make the world go round, but it keeps a lot of people from merely sitting and looking on.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

NOW THAT the time for outdoor life has come around again I want to pass on a warning which came to me last summer too late to use.

"Please tell your girls," urged my correspondent, "what an awful time one reader had with her eyes because she read a few hours on the water. One cannot be too careful of the strain upon the eyes which the strong light from the water produces. I myself know of a girl who, some years ago, when the mania for getting tanned and burned was at its height, lay flat on her back on the deck of a sailboat in the blazing sun for several hours to 'get a good burn.' She got the burn, but alas, not only on her face but also in her eyes. They were so badly bloodshot that she was a sight for days. Moreover, they were permanently weakened and so predisposed to burn that she cannot go out on the water at all without making them bloodshot."

Remember the next few months what delicate, complicated and altogether wonderful affairs those eyes of yours are. Be careful to shade them well and be especially careful not to use them in too bright a light. That is quite as much a strain as the insufficient light.

"May I sit here?"

What a pleasant, graceful little touch the use of that phrase is.

You are in a railway compartment and have half of a double seat.

A woman wants the other half of the seat and instead of simply taking possession unannounced, prefaces her entrance by a "May I sit here?" and a pleasant smile.

Of course it is only a formality. Of course you couldn't answer any other way than in the affirmative. Of course it is unnecessary. But don't you think it's pleasant?

I do.

It seems to me just one of those graceful little habits that are the hallmark of the true lady—not necessary, but very nice.

A man whom I know who is very anxious to breed habits of saving in his children, had adopted this method.

Perhaps it will appeal to other fathers.

As each child begins to earn his own bread and butter the father takes out for him a twenty-year endowment policy for $1,000. This, he tells his son or daughter, he will pay for three years. At the end of that time he is going to turn the policy over to his owner, who can either redeem it for three-twentieths of its face value or keep on paying it.

He has six children. Four of them have received their policies and not one has chosen to take the money out. Two have the policies already paid up and ready for a rainy day, and not only that, but have kept on saving on their own accounts.

Doesn't that sound like a pretty good method?

MOTHER'S CORNER

BY JULIA CHANDLER.

"All that I am, or ever hope to be, I owe to my Mother."
—Abraham Lincoln.

THAT MASON GIRL.

MRS. MASON went into the sewing room and closed the door. She sat down by the window and pulled the big basket, piled high with mending, toward her. But she did not mend. Through her mind ran a sentence she had heard in a lecture hall a few days previous.

Two girls had been sitting within earshot. They had been discussing some picnic expedition animatedly, when the older suggested:

"I say, Maudie, don't let's ask Marjorie Mason. She wants all the fun and none of the work."

"And she'll expect tea in her cold tea with perhaps a maid to serve it," answered the younger girl with a laugh.

Two days later, Mrs. Mason had accidentally heard her fifteen-year-old daughter referred to as "That Mason Girl."

And now, alone in her sewing room with her great basket of mending before her, she was slowly awakening from a fifteen-year sleep. She was thinking profoundly of her motherhood; probing her mind and her heart and her methods for the thing that made it possible that Marjorie should be referred to as "That Mason Girl!"

And the truth was borne in upon her. Through the girl's fifteen years her mother had always spared her self-denials and privations. She had stood between Marjorie and the unpleasant things of life. When anyone had to be denied a pleasure, she had so gladly been the one. The very self-denials had been a pleasure to her, for were they not for the promotion of the happiness of this dear little girl of hers? She had been hanging up the material things of life, but even this seemed insignificant to her (although it quite accounted to her for the phrase, "Marjorie wants all the pleasure but none of the work") in comparison to her habit of standing between the girl and the penalty of her mistakes.

In sparing Marjorie pain she had perhaps added to her happiness of the moment, but a wise parent has thought for the future, and already the future seemed to be meeting this troubled mother upon present ground. The very privations and hardships, from which she had protected her daughter, should have been the girl's equipment for life. That she had been robbed by her mother of this equipment had made her selfish, impatient of inconvenience, intolerant of responsibility, expecting consideration where she showed none.

These were the characteristics that had made the reference to her as "That Mason Girl!" possible!

"Oh," said the mother of Marjorie, sadly, "I have blundered pitifully! Is my blunder beyond reparation?"

She determined that it should not be.

Marjorie opened the door in interruption to the mother's thoughts, and Mrs. Mason knew by her face at once that she was troubled.

"What is it, dear?" questioned the mother gently.

"Oh, mother, I am afraid I have offended Mrs. Bradley horribly. She overheard me tell Harriet the other day, in Harriet's room, that she was such a dandy. And, mother, she has hardly spoken to me since! Won't you explain it away from me, mother? You are so clever at such things!"

The mother of Marjorie was silent. Yes, it was true. She had been all too clever in shielding her young daughter from the penalty of her own impetuosity and recklessness! Very clever at making a moral coward of this bright young girl unfolding into womanhood already.

It was not easy, but after a little the girl gathered courage (from the mother who was so used to meeting disagreeable things for her) to offer the apology Mrs. Mason demanded that she should offer to Mrs. Bradley. From the apology she gathered strength to fight her next battle with less shrinking. And when one must pay the penalties of one's errors in full, the errors become fewer in number.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist

MINERAL FOOD MUST GO THROUGH VEGETABLE OR ANIMAL TO BE ASSIMILABLE.

It is the various compounds of the mineral elements that are so important in the processes of nutrition. So important are they that a school of medicine, biochemistry, has been based upon their administration. Iron, sulphur or phosphorus may be found deficient in the blood as indicated by symptoms, but you cannot furnish sulphur to the blood by drinking a solution of sulphur water. Mineral food must go through the vegetable or animal. If we want iron or sulphur we must eat lettuce, eggs, meat, peanuts, wheat or other nuts or cereals. The vegetables, especially beans, lettuce, potatoes and nuts, are rich in the mineral salts. Nuts contain, everything considered, the best supply.

IN HOUSE CLEANING TIMES

Several Hints That Will Be Appreciated by Women in the Renovating Season.

You can clean white paint with warm water, using a little whiting on the washcloth and rinsing afterward with clear water.

A good way of preventing rust on kitchen fenders, after having cleaned the bright parts with fine emery cloth, is to rub them well with a piece of suet.

To clean and restore the elasticity of cane bottom chairs, turn the chair and with hot water and a sponge saturate the cane work thoroughly. If the chair is dirty use soap. Afterward set the chair to dry out of doors and the seat will be just as when new.

If you wish to draw down the blind, yet leave the window open, it is a good plan to have a screw eye in each end of the curtain which can be fastened to the hooks at each end of the window sill. Unless the wind is blowing very strong this will prevent the disagreeable sound of its flapping, yet will admit plenty of fresh air.

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

All Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, look my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."

—Mrs. DEBRA BERTHE, Sikeston, Mo.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is more widely and successfully used than any other remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed. Why don't you try it?

VERIFY IT.

The Proof is in Janesville Almost at Your Door.

The public statement of a Janesville citizen is in itself strong proof for Janesville people, but confirmation strengthens the evidence.

Here is a Janesville citizen who testified years ago that Doan's Kidney Pills relieved sick kidneys, and now states the cure was permanent. Can any sufferer from kidney ill ask better proof? You can investigate. The case is right at home.

Mrs. Joseph Gower, 302 Eastern Ave., Janesville, Wis., says: "The benefit I received from Doan's Kidney Pills when I used them some years ago has been permanent. I willingly confirm my former endorsement of this remedy. I was afflicted with kidney complaint for several weeks and was feeling miserable in every way when a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a supply at The People's Drug Company and the contents of three boxes sufficed to rid me of my trouble. I never fail to advise a trial of Doan's Kidney Pills whenever I hear anyone complaining of weak kidneys."

CANDIDATES TAKEN INTO LAKOTA CLUB

Three New Members Initiated Into Club At Rooms in Assembly Block Last Evening.

Members of the Lakota Club last evening initiated three neophytes into fellowship at a special meeting in their club rooms in Assembly block. The club of the society were administered to John and Frank Primm and George Caldwell, the ceremonies being in charge of Will Paendchen, Walter L. Carle, and Will Landen. A lunch was served after the initiation and the members and candidates enjoyed a sociable and social session. The membership of the club now numbers forty-five.

On Labor Day the Lakota club is planned to entertain the Arbiters of the club in a special meeting in their club rooms in Assembly block. A lunch trip will be made up the river in the afternoon, with a baseball game at an upriver park. Returning to this city, the hosts and their guests will enjoy a banquet at eight o'clock and the rest of the evening will be given over to a social session in the club rooms.

NOTES FOR CITY FARMERS ONLY.

(By H. L. RANS.)
What has become of the old-fashioned, double-decked apple dumpting that grandma used to make? As a boy, we remember her spraying our stomachs with these dumptings until we looked as if we were a watermelon. They were a greater delicacy than a slab of soap.

The man who tops off a light breakfast with six of these dumptings, washed down with a quart of hard cider that would stand up and defy the whole family, will find his appetite fading away like a thin man in a feather bed. If you want to test the seating capacity of your stomach, lead it up to a plate of hot dumptings and unhook your belt.

If the hired girl oversteps in the morning, steal up to her closet and pin an alarm clock to her cuff. If she fails to land her on the linoleum in five minutes, present her with an alarm clock. We have known hired girls with a spore which would blow out the gas, and in that case an alarm clock is about as effective as using the sign language in a blind asylum.

They are now making a self-tripping alarm clock which runs around the room like a rat terrier with the Calumet bell and tucks off a plug which sounds like a stevedore calling for ice water and clean towels. It is said that before this clock was put on the market it was tried out on the Supreme Court, the result being that one venerable justice awoke so hurriedly that he kicked the cover off the code. Give this worthy device a trial.

A correspondent who signs himself "Sic Semper Tyranni" writes to ask if it is proper to wear felt shoes with evening dress. Our correspondent is in the wrong paw. This is no correct mode of dress for a woman. We will confide to Sic Semper Tyranni, however, that if he lives in Chicago felt boots or rubbers or hip boots will go anywhere outside of the black stones.

COOKSVILLE.
Cooksville, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Behring is entertaining her daughter and family. John Whipple of Mrs. J. H. Mon, visited a couple of days last week at the home of Paul Savage and J. E. Johnson.

Mrs. Starr Atwood and daughter spent several days last week with Miss Susan Porter. Mr. Atwood was also up Saturday and returned home with his family to their home in Janesville on Sunday.

Nate Kelly and wife are happy over the arrival of a fine pound baby girl at their home.

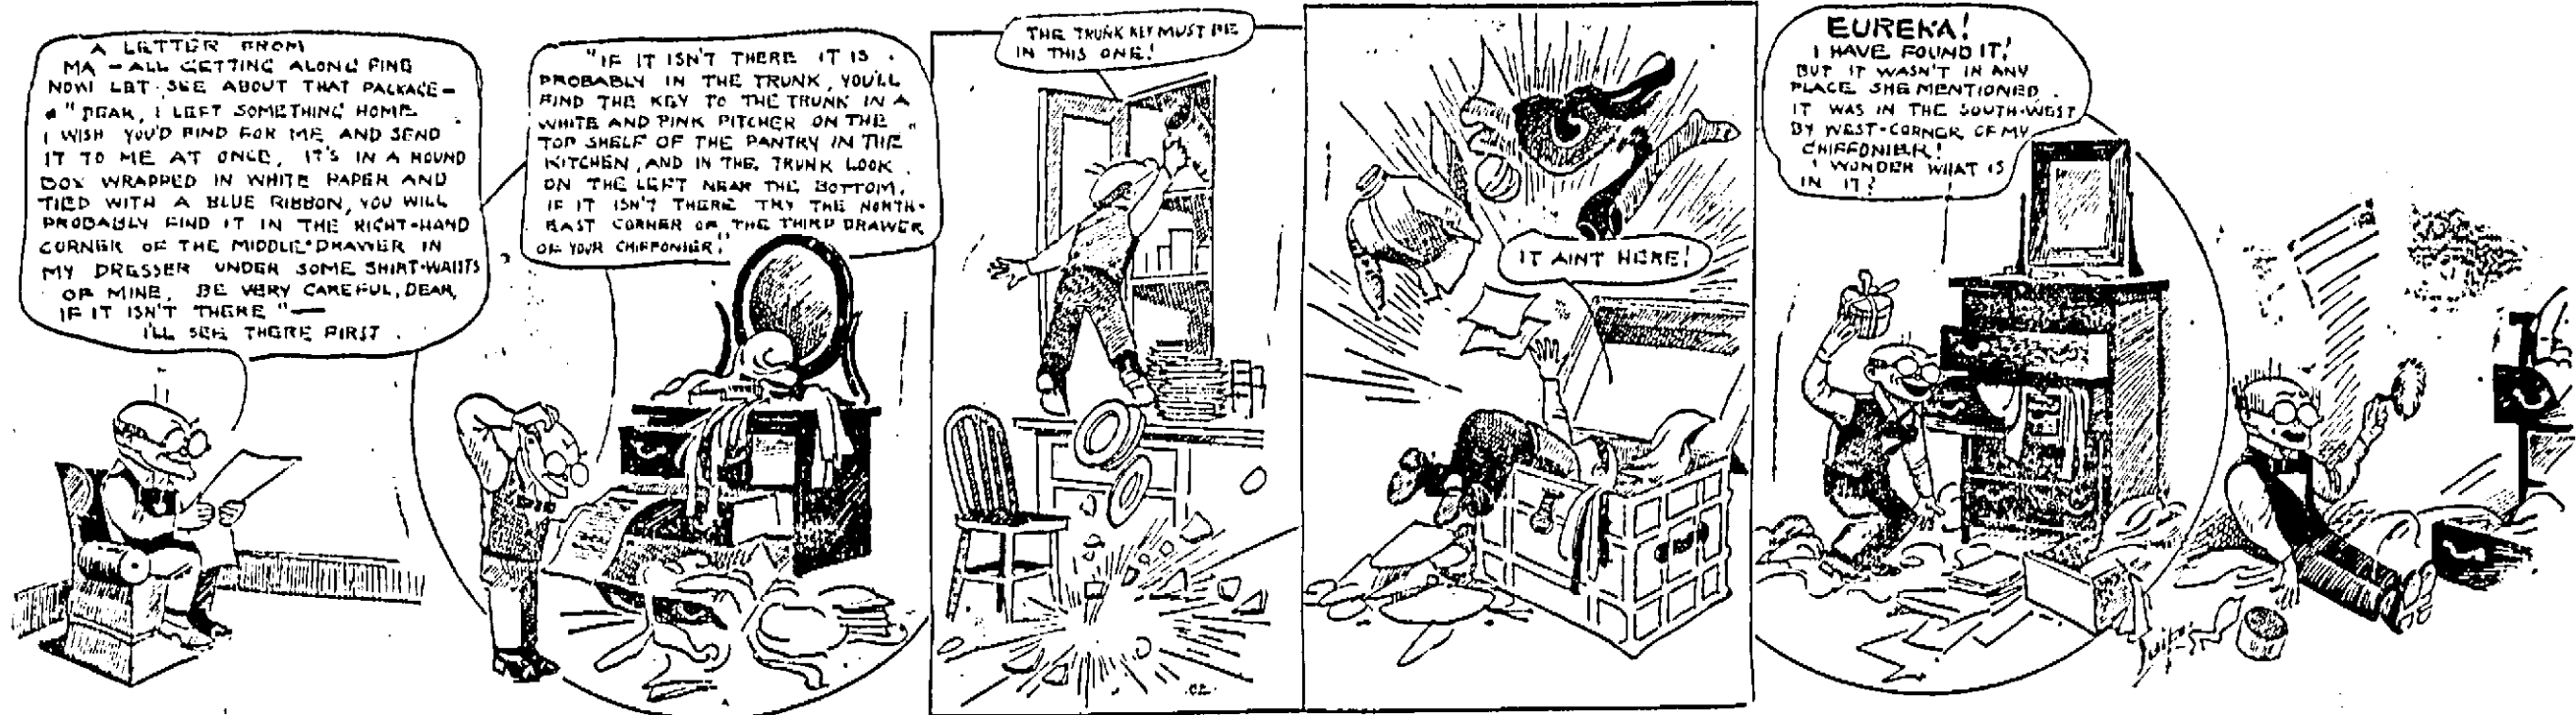

Mr. and Mrs. Maxon have gone to Evansville for an indefinite stay at the home of their son-in-law.

Messrs. James Gillies, Wm. Porter and Jos. Porter each entertained a few relatives last week in honor of Mrs. Atwood and baby of Janesville.

Messrs. Fred Miller, Oren Johnson and James Allen entertained the club members and a few friends at the home of the former last Wednesday afternoon. The afternoon was spent with music and in a social way and a delicious supper was served by the hostesses to nearly forty.

Mrs. Stella Nelson and Miss Irene Stoughton of Stoughton, were callers on Mr. and Mrs. Savage on Monday.

Jerry Armstrong has been restoring his property that he recently bought of Mrs. Fisher.

FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright, 1911, by Charles Scribner's Sons.

The foot was on the threshold of the doorway when Judson overtook him.

"Alec told me to report to you when I couldn't get at him," the ex-engineer began abruptly. "There's something hatching, but I can't find out what it is. Are you thinking about going out on the road anywhere to-night, Mr. Lidgerwood?"

Lidgerwood's decision was taken on the instant.

"Yes; I think I shall go west in my car in an hour or so. Why?"

"There ain't any why," I guess, if you feel like going. But what I don't savvy is why them fellows back yonder in the waiting room are so dead anxious to find out if you are going."

As he spoke a man who had been skulking behind a truck load of express freight, so near that he could have touched either of them with an outstretched arm, withdrew silently in the direction of the lunch room. He was a tall man with stooping shoulders, and his noiseless retreat was cautiously made, yet not quite cautiously enough.

"My erlop! Look at that, will you?" Judson exclaimed, pointing to the retreating figure. "That's Hallock, and he was listening!"

Lidgerwood shook his head.

"No, that isn't Hallock," he denied. And then, with a bit of the man deriding rasp in his voice: "See here, Judson, don't you let McCloskey's prejudices run away with you; make a memorandum of that and paste it in your hat. I know what you have been instructed to do, and I'll tell you here and now that I shall be much better pleased if you can bring me the assurance that Hallock is a true man."

"But that was Hallock," insisted Judson, "or else it was his living double."

"No; follow him and you'll see for yourself. It was more like that Ruby Gulch operator who quit in a quarrel with McCloskey a week or two ago. What is his name—Sheffield?"

Judson hastened down the platform to satisfy himself, and Lidgerwood mounted the stairs to his office. Grady was still pounding the keys of the typewriter on the latch of letters given him in the busy hours following his return from supper, and the superintendent turned his back upon the clicking activities and went to stand at the window, from which he could look down upon the platform with the waiting passenger train drawn up beside it.

Seeing the cheerful lights in the side-tracked Nadia, he fell to thinking of Eleanor, opening the door of consciousness thought to her and saying to himself that she was never more than a single step beyond the threshold of that door. Looking across to the Nadia, he knew now why he had hesitated so long before deciding to go on the night trip to Timmynamy park. But he could still resolve that there should not be a repetition of the old tragedy of the moth and the candle. It was well that at the very outset a duty call had come to enable him to break the spell of her nearness, and it was also well that he had decided not to disregard it.

The train conductor's "All aboard!" shouted on the platform just below his window drew his attention from the Nadia and the distracting thought of Eleanor's nearness. Train 205 was ready to resume its westward flight, and the locomotive bell was clanging musically.

At the critical moment when the train was fairly in motion Lidgerwood saw Hallock—it was unmistakably Hallock this time—spring from the shadow of a baggage truck and whip up the step of the smoker, and a scant half second later he saw Judson race across the wide platform and throw himself like a self-propelled projectile against the vestibule at the forward end of the sleeper.

Judson's dash and his capture of the outgoing train were easily accounted for, he had seen Hallock. But where was Hallock going? Lidgerwood was still asking himself the question half abstractedly when he crossed to his desk and touched the buzzer push, which summoned an operator from the dispatcher's room.

"What Mr. Pennington Flemister, care of Goodies, at Little Butte, that I am coming out with my car and should be with him by 11 o'clock. Then call up the yard office and tell Matthews to let me have the car and engine by 8:30 sharp," he directed.

The operator made a note of the order and went out, and the superintendent settled himself in his desk chair for another hour's hard work with the stenographer. At twenty-five minutes past 8 he heard the wheel grindings of the up coming service car, and the weary shorthand man snatched a rubber band upon the notes of the final letter.

Bidding good night to Grady, the superintendent put on his light coat and went out and down the stairs. At the outer door he turned up the long platform instead of down and walked quickly to the Nadia, persuading himself that he must, in common decency, tell the president that he was going away—persuading himself that it was this and not at all the desire to warm his hands at the grateful fire of Eleanor's mockery that was making him turn his back for a moment upon the waiting special train.

CHAPTER XVI. ELEANOR INTERVIEWS.

THE president's private car was sidetracked on the short spur at the eastern end of the Crow's Nest, and when Lidgerwood reached it he found the observation platform fully occupied.

"Hello, Mr. Lidgerwood, is that you?" called Van Lee when the superintendent came across to the spur track. "I thought you said this was a bad man's country. We have been out here for a solid hour, and nobody has shot up the town or even whooped a single lone-some war whoop. In fact, I think your village with the heavenly name has gone gloriously to bed. We're defeated."

"It does go to bed pretty early—that part of it which doesn't stay up pretty late," laughed Lidgerwood. "Then he came closer and spoke to Mrs. Brewster. 'I am going west in my car, and I don't know just when I shall return. Please tell your father that everything we have here is entirely at his service. If you don't see what you want you are to ask for it.'"

"Will there be any one to ask when you are gone?" she inquired, neither sorrowing nor rejoicing so far as he could determine.

"Oh, yes; McCloskey, my trampsman, will be in from the wreck before morning, and he will turn flipdips trying to make things pleasant for you if you will give him the chance."

Miss Brewster was running her fingers along the hand rail as if it were the keyboard of a piano. "You say you don't know how long you will be away?" she asked.

"No, but probably not more than the night. I was only providing for the unexpected, which some people say is what always happens."

"Will your run take you as far as the Timmynamy canyon?"

"Yes, through it and some little distance beyond."

"You have just said that we are to ask for what we want. Did you mean it?"

"Surely," he replied unguardedly. "Then we may as well begin at once," she said coolly, and, turning quickly to the others: "Oh, all you people, listen a minute, will you? Hush, Carolyn! What do you say to a moonlight ride through one of the grandest canyons in the west in Mr. Lidgerwood's car? It will be something to talk about as long as you live. Don't all speak at once, please."

But they did. There was an instant and enthusiastic chorus of approval, winding up rather dolefully, however, with Miss Doty's: "But your mother will never consent to it, Eleanor!"

"Mr. Lidgerwood will never consent, you mean," put in Miriam Holcombe quietly.

Lidgerwood said what he might without being too crudely inhospitable. His car was entirely at the service of the president's party, of course, but it was not very commodious compared with the Nadia. Moreover, he was going on a business trip, and at the end of it he would have to leave them for an hour or two, maybe longer. Moreover, again, if they got tired they would have to sleep as they could, though possibly his sister-in-law in the service car might be made to accommodate the three young women. All this he said, hoping and believing that Mrs. Brewster would not only refuse to go herself, but would promptly veto an unchaperoned excursion.

But this was one time when his disinclination was completely overruled. Mrs. Brewster, cajoled by her daughter, yielded a reluctant consent, going to the car door to tell Lidgerwood that she would hold him responsible for the safe return of the trip.

"See, now, how fatally easy it is for one to promise more—oh, so very much more—than one has any idea of performing," murmured the president's daughter, dropping out to walk beside the victim when the party trooped down the long platform of the Crow's Nest to the service car, and when he did not reply, "Please don't be grumpy."

"It was the maddest notion!" he protested. "Whatever made you suggest it?"

"Listen," she said. "I did it out of pure heartfulness. You showed so plainly this afternoon that you wished to be quit of me—of the entire party—that I couldn't resist the temptation to pay you back with good, liberal interest. Possibly you will think twice before you snub me again, Howard, dear."

Quickly he stopped and faced her. The others were a few steps in advance—were already boarding the service car.

"One word, Eleanor, and for heaven's sake let us make it final. There are some things that I can endure and some others that I cannot—will not. I love you; what you said to me the last time we were together made no difference; nothing you can ever say will make any difference. You must take that fact into consideration while you are here and we are obliged to meet. In justice to me, in justice to Van Lee!"

"I think your conductor is willing to speak to you," she broke in sweetly, and he gave it up, putting her on the car and turning to confront the man with the green shaded lantern, who proved to be Bradford.

"Any special orders, Mr. Lidgerwood?" inquired Bradford.

"Yes, then without stop to Little Butte, unless the dispatcher calls you down. Time yourself to make Little Butte by 11 o'clock, or a little later. Who is on the engine?"

"Williams."

"Williams? How does it come that he is doubling out with me? He has just made the run over the desert division with the president's car?"

"So have I, for that matter," said Bradford calmly. "But we both got a hurry call about fifteen minutes ago."

Lidgerwood held his watch to the light of the green shaded lantern. If he meant to keep the wire appointment with Eleanor there was no time to call out another crew.

"I don't like to ask you and Williams to double out of your turn, especially when I know of no necessity for it. But I'm in a rush. Can you two stand it?"

"Sure," said the ex-conductor. Then he ventured a word of his own. "I'll ride up ahead with Williams—you're pretty full up back here in the car anyway—and then you'll know that two of your own men are keeping' tab on the run. With the wrecks we're enjoying!"

Lidgerwood was impatient of mysteries.

"What do you mean, Andy?" he broke in. "Anything new?"

"Oh, nothing you could put your finger on. Some old rug chewin' going on up at Cat Higgs' and the other waterin' troughs about how you've got to be done up if it costs money. Williams went over to take the 200 out of the roundhouse a few minutes ago and found one of the back shop men down under her tinkerin' with her trucks."

"What's that?" was the sharp query.

"That's all there was to it," Bradford went on imperturbably. "Williams asked the shopman what he was doing under there, and the fellow crawled out and said he was just lookin' her over to see if she was all right for the night run. Says Williams to me, 'telling me about it just now: 'That's all right, Andy. But how in blue blazes did he or anybody else expect Matthews and the other know that the 200 was going out? That's what I'd like to know.' And I had to pass it up."

Lidgerwood asked a single question.

"Did Williams find that anything had been tampered with?"

"Nothing that you could shoot up the back shop man for. One of the truck safety chains—the one on the left side, back—was loose. But it couldn't have hurt anything if it had been taken off. We ain't runnin' on safety chains these days."

"Safety chain" loose, you say—so if the truck should jump and swing it would keep on swinging? You tell Williams when you go up ahead that I want that machinist's name."

"I'm," said Bradford. "Heckon it was meant to do that?"

"God only knows what isn't meant these times, Andy. Hold on a minute before you give Williams the word to go." Then he turned to young Jeffers, who had come out on the car platform to light a cigarette. "Will you ask Miss Brewster to step out here for a moment?"

Eleanor came out at the summons, and Jeffers gave the superintendent a clear field by dropping off to ask Bradford for a match.

"You sent for me, Howard?" said the president's daughter, and honey could

"RUN WITHOUT STOP TO LITTLE BUTTE," not have matched her tone for sweet nothings.

"Yes, I shall have to anticipate the angels gossip a little by telling you that we are in the midst of a pretty bitter labor fight. That is why people go gunning for me. I can't take you and your friends over the road to-night."

"Why not?" she inquired.

"Because it may not be entirely safe."

"Nonsense!" she flashed back. "What could happen to us on a little excursion like this?"

"I don't know, but I wish you would reconsider and go back to the Nadia."

"I shall do nothing of the sort," she said willfully. And then, with totally unnecessary earnestness, she added: "Is it a return of the old malady? Are you afraid again, Howard?"

The faint was too much. Wheeling suddenly, Lidgerwood snatched out a summons to Jeffers: "Get aboard, Mr. Jeffers. We are going."

The Skin and Not the Blood. Until recently it has been a generally accepted proposition that eczema was a disease of the blood, and that in order to cure it, the blood must be purified and enriched by internal remedies. Careful experiments and scientific investigations have taught us that eczema is purely skin disease, and curable through the skin alone. A great majority of persons afflicted with eczema have no other ailment, which is accepted as positive proof that it is purely a skin disease. Having established this fact, the chemists of the American Drug and Press Association set about to compound a prescription that would successfully cope with this disease, and after much investigation brought out Meritol Eczema Remedy, the effect of which is marvelous. If you are afflicted with this loathsome disease, do not delay trying Meritol Eczema Remedy. You will be surprised at its prompt action, its soothing effect and its permanent results. Reliable Drug Co. are commissioned by the association to sell it in Janesville.

The Hall Storm.
We learn that great damage was done by the late hail storm to the tobacco crop in the vicinity of Danesville, where it turned and bore directly west. The heaviest rainfall was also along this line.

Big Demand for Talent.
Scenarios for moving picture plays are asked for. "If you have never tackled writing a scenario," a circular says, "it doesn't matter. All we want is a good idea as to what would constitute a good story to be shown on the screen—comedy, tragedy, drama or educational." In explanation of the circular a man in the business said that the moving picture as a means of amusement had assumed such gigantic proportions that new talent must be secured to satisfy the demand for novelties.
King George's Joke.

Why "Deaf as an Adder."
"Deaf as an adder," taken from the "deaf adder that stoppeth her ears" in the Psalms, is founded on an oriental superstition that a serpent presses one ear to the ground while covering the other with its tail—an acrobatic feat that might stamp even the wisdom of a serpent, since a snake has no external ear.

Round Lake Country

Thousands are coming to the Round Lake Country from the four corners of the earth.
The great stock and dairy region of the Northwest. It is located in Sawyer Co., Wisconsin where the climate is healthful and invigorating, and a failure of crops is unknown.
Good markets, nominal freight rates, schools, churches, good roads, neighbors. Get in on this while the price per acre is so low. Remember I can sell you a good farm at $20 per acre and can give you TEN YEARS IN WHICH TO PAY FOR IT. Can you do any better anywhere else? I should say not. Come in and see me today.
